Two get life sentences for Seymour's robbery

By BRENT MACEY

An all white nine men three women jury Wednesday found two black Gulfport men guilty on five counts of armed robbery in connection with the June 11, 1979 robbery of Seymour's Jewelry and Gift Store in the Bay Shopping Center in Bay St. Louis.

Jerry Wayne Bridges, 26, and Elijah Bellino, 30, were sentenced by Senior Circuit Court Judge Leslie B. Grant to life imprisonment in the state penitentiary for each of the five counts. The sentences are to be run concurrently.

In addition, Bridges is sentenced to six months in the Hancock County jail for charges of simple assault in connection with that robbery.

That sentence is also to be run concurrently.

This was the second trial for the two defendants. The first trial in November of last year resulted in a mistrial when jurors failed to reach a verdict.

The two are currently being held at the Hancock County jail awaiting transfer to Parchman penitentiary.

Henry Otis, circuit clerk, said a motion for a retrial is expected to be submitted by defense attorney Nicholas Haas.

During the two day trial a total of 14 witnesses were called to testify.

Glen Cannon and Richard Smith, assistant district attorneys and prosecutors for the state of Mississippi, called five witnesses, all of whom were victims of the alleged crime.

Haas called nine witnesses, most of whom are relatives or friends of the defendants.

Mary Lee Bergeron, co-owner of the jewelry store, testified first for the prosecution.

She said the robbers came to her store just after opening hours around 10 a.m.

After being in the store for approximately 10 to 15 minutes the robbers drew guns on herself, her mother and co-owner Mary Buccola, and Rose Wuerstoff, a part time employee, Bergeron stated.

She said all three women were told to lie face down on the floor behind a counter. Their hands were bound behind their backs with adhesive tape, she said.

At that time she said she told the robbers her husband, Uless Bergeron, was working in the back.

"I was afraid if he walked out he might get shot," she said.

Uless Bergeron, who also testified, said he was examining jewelry in the back of the store with an eye glass when he was struck in the back of the head with a pistol.

He was the only witness for the prosecution who did not give a positive identification of the defendants.

Mrs. Bergeron stated her husband was tied up behind a partition which separated an area in the store being remodeled near the counter behind which the three women were bound.

She testified Bridges was the one who struck her husband.

She stated Bellino went to the front of the store and unlocked all jewelry cases containing watches rings and valuables estimated at $68,000.

Mrs. Bergeron said Bridges stood over the three hostages while Bellino removed jewelry from cases and placed the merchandise in bags.

Mrs. Bergeron testified that while the robbery was occurring two customers came into the shop at different intervals.

Both customers, Marie Hart and Cynthia Fricke, were also forced to lay down on the floor with their hands bound behind them, she stated.

When all six were bound and on the floor, Mrs. Bergeron testified the robbers emptied Frick's purse on the floor and discovered $1,000.

Following that, she stated her purse and her mother's purse were emptied and that Bridges went into an office area in the jewelry store and went through desk drawers, and filing cabinets.

She said the robbers stayed in the store approximately 30 to 45 minutes.

"They put everything in bags," she said.

"When they left they went out the front door," she stated.

Fricke, during her testimony, said she managed to untie herself 'immediately' after the robbers left and ran after them down an alley near the jewelry store.

Her 12-year-old son, who was outside the store, chased the get-a-way car which Frick described as a brown Lincoln Continental.

Her son gave a license number of the vehicle to police, she stated.

Both Bellino and Bridges were arrested by the Bay St. Louis Police

City council shelves preservation ordinance

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

The Bay St. Louis City Council Tuesday tabled adoption of an ordinance which would have created a Historic District Commission and Architectural Review Board.

The council failed to adopt the ordinance, apparently feeling the proposal, as drafted, would be restrictive of property owner rights.

In addition, the council apparently considered cost of publishing the unusually long document in a local newspaper prior to adoption as required by law, would be a burdensome expense.

Nell Frisbie, Interim Historical Preservation Committee chairman, presented the 15-page ordinance to the council and requested recommendations.

Peter Benvenuti, council president, asked Joseph Gex, city attorney, "Have you reviewed the suggested ordinance?"

Gex replied, "They have some paragraphs that are all good and pretty tight for what the committee wants." "Have you all read it at all? It's very stringent," Gex asked of the councilmen.

Councilman Fred Wagner asked if the committee had referred to similar existing ordinances.

Frisbie replied, "We used existing ordinances from Pascagoula and Meridian."

"We felt if we used requirements which have proven workable in other nearby cities it would be more acceptable locally," she stated.

"The city would then decide the boundaries for its historic districts," Frisbie added.

Gex reiterated, "It's very stringent."

Frisbie replied, "We did not want it to be. There would be no particular architectural style imposed. A structure would just have to be in harmony with the surrounding neighborhood."

Councilman James Thriffley said, "I think this ordinance is very good."

Frisbie explained, "We were in-

"Someone could even erect a

Third grade moving back to North Bay

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Third grade classes temporarily housed at Bay Senior High School will be moved back to North Bay Elementary School this fall.

The third grade classes moved from dilapidated mobile classrooms last fall to east wing rooms at the high school. The trailers were then sold.

At a special meeting Wednesday night the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District Board of Trustees unanimously accepted a recommendation by J.D. McCulloch, superintendent of education, temporarily placing:

—First through fifth grade students residing inside the Waveland city limits at Waveland Elementary School;

—First through fifth grade students residing inside Bay St. Louis city limits and district territory outside city limits at North Bay;

—All sixth grade students at the S.J. Ingram Building on Uman Avenue in Bay St. Louis, across the street from Bay Junior High School;

—All seventh and eighth grade students at the junior high;

—All ninth through 12th grade students at the senior high.

McCulloch noted the move "is just for the 1981-1982 school year."

"I've discussed this matter with all board members," he stated.

The trustees met with McCulloch in a secret 'workshop' meeting Monday night.

The superintendent reported, "This is not the best recommendation, but it is the best solution for the time being."

"Some programs will have to be curtailed somewhat, but I can't see doing away with any program," he said.

McCulloch explained after the meeting, "We might have to possibly cut back shop classes, but we don't know exactly what will be done."

W.J. Cameron, junior high principal, said eighth and ninth grade students participate in industrial arts classes which teach metal and wood working techniques.

He explained no shop facilities are located at the senior high and the danger of bussing ninth grade students across US-90 to the junior high Industrial Arts building daily.

McCulloch also reported at the special meeting, "This is how we see it based on our financial situation, but we are in need of six additional classrooms and three more for special education classes."

In other business at the 8:45 p.m. meeting in the superintendent's senior high offices, the board unanimously accepted a McCulloch's recommendation for a $115,000 renovation project at North Bay.

The proposal will now be forwarded to the State Educational Finance Commission for full funding approval.

The renovation project will replace the school's roof, 12 exterior doors and metal walkway covers.

McCulloch reported Fred Wagner, a Bay St. Louis architect, prepared the renovation recommendation.

"We were advised we must file our application with EFC before April 13 due to limited finances," he noted.

"I've discussed this with the board and they felt we should have a new roof, doors and walkway cover," McCulloch stated.

"We should move forward with this application because we have ceiling tiles deteriorating and facia rotting. We should protect the building we have," he suggested.

Thriffley to seek re-election

JIM THRIFILEY

James C. (Jim) Thriffley III has announced his candidacy for reelection to the Bay St. Louis City Council from Ward 2 in the Democratic primary on May 12.

For two years of his current four-year term, he has served as council president.

Thriffley, a native of Arabi, La., has resided in Bay View Court in Bay St. Louis for 15 years.

He is an instructor at St. Stanislaus High School in physics, business math,

Nineteen qualify for Bay elections

By BRENT MACEY

Nineteen candidates qualified for the upcoming May 12, Bay St. Louis city primary elections before the Saturday noon qualification deadline. Eddie Perry, city clerk, said Saturday shortly after city hall closed.

The noon deadline was also the deadline for citizens wishing to vote in the primary elections.

Some 300 people registered at city hall between 8:00 a.m. and 12 noon Saturday, raising the total number of registered Bay voters to 1,000.

Bay St. Louis has three wards or districts and each ward elects one councilman at-large position. Two are seeking Ward I seats. Three are running for the Ward II position. Four candidates are seeking Ward III seats and five are seeking the Ward IV position.

Joseph Buccola, seeking the mayor's seat, is the only candidate registered as a Republican.

Perry said Buccola was attempting to be listed on the general election ballot June 2, 1981.

Eleven of the remaining 18 candidates are registered as Democrats with two of the four candidates seeking the Ward III councilman seat registered as independents.

Incumbent Mayor James Thriffley will be reelected by voters. Frisbie, Jr. and Buccola for the mayor position.

David Michael Berryman is up for reelection to the position of mayor.

For the councilman-at-large position, Kenneth J. Anderson and Perry Eugene prefabricated steel building. It would just have to include a compatible facade," she reported.

"So construction wouldn't be pushed beyond what someone could afford," Frisbie added.

Gex noted, "When I was reading through Section Five of the proposed ordinance I noticed the city is authorized to make appropriations for the commission."

Frisbie explained the section provided an option for commission fund allotments for special projects.

"It doesn't say the city has to provide funds," she said.

Gex further inquired, "It says the city may make available additional amounts necessary" for various projects of the commission. I want to know what you're asking for?"

The committee chairman replied, "In this section the city is authorized to provide funds, but is not required to."

"This doesn't say the whole city is a historic district. The city must conduct a public hearing before establishing any district and the city council must wait at least 60 days after such a hearing before deciding whether or not to establish a district," Frisbie explained.

Gex stated, "I have no problems with the legality of the proposed ordinance." Thriffley offered a motion to adopt the ordinance. The motion died for lack of a second.

City Clerk Edward Favre reported law requires the proposed ordinance be published in the newspaper three times which would cost some $680.

Benvenuti asked, "Haven't we exceeded our advertising budget?" Favre replied affirmatively.

Thriffley then offered a motion to advertise the ordinance which also died for lack of a second.

Wagner then suggested, "See if there's a little room for brevity."

Frisbie stated, "We consulted with the State Department of Archives and History and incorporated requirements they suggested."

Wagner reported, "I think Natchez has an ordinance about one-fourth the size of this one and it is a lot simpler." Thriffley noted, "Members of the committee spent many evenings and numerous hours compiling this ordinance on behalf of the city."

"I can't believe how industrious they were," he added.

In other business at the regular 7 p.m. meeting at City Hall, the council:

—Approved a contract with Ronnie Murray, federal programs coordinator, to administer a $1.8 million Community Development Small Cities Program for housing rehabilitation, gas line repair and recreation;

—Approved placing three newspaper advertisements announcing April 20 and May 6 small cities program public hearings, both at 6 p.m. in City Hall;

—Approved minutes and recommendations by the City Board of Adjustment;

—Approved a recommendation by Bennett to undertake a $175 fence repair project and reroute a ditch at the corner of St. George Street and Necaise Avenue;

—Approved renewal of a $16,000 flood insurance policy for the Garden Center on Leonard Avenue as requested by Favre;

—Approved not changing city ward lines and polling locations based on information from the 1980 census indicating a 14.07 percent population increase;

—Adopted a resolution authorizing Advanced Developments, Inc. of Bay St. Louis to prepare an economic feasibility study application for the city's water and sewer systems;

—Authorized a resolution to the State Employee Retirement Board stating ages of former Plumbing Inspector Ed Larroux when he began and terminated employment with the city and the length of time he was employed;

—Authorized a quit claim deed as recommended by Gex for Garden Isles property purchased in a tax sale by Charles A. Wagner;

—Authorized a tax collectors deed be issued to Gloria C. Paine and Joseph C. Shubert to clear title on property;

—Accepted a recommendation by Favre to reimburse three years of back property taxes to W.C. Pickering for homestead exemption not previously claimed;

—Accepted a recommendation by Favre to drop $650 of taxable improvements assessed to James Garriga. The city clerk said the improvements were repairs undertaken after a fire.

—Accepted a recommendation by Favre to correct two property tax overestimates caused by computer error;

—Accepted a recommendation by Favre to drop a $13,000 improvement assessment levied against Kenneth McKenna of Waveland;

—Accepted a recommendation by Favre to drop an improvement assessment levied against Salvador Ladet in Shoreline Park. Favre said he was assessed for a trailer which does not exist;

—Set a May 5 hearing regarding cleanup of Henry Carmichael's property at the corner of Dunbar and Boardman Avenues;

—Took under advisement a request by Pat Murphy Jr. for $500 to support a planned June 6 beachfront festival in the Downtown area;

—Tabled a request by Bennett to pay Larroux for three weeks vacation pay;

—Tabled a request by Charles E. Tichenor, who operates a sanitary septic service, to dump sewage in the oxidation pond pending signing of an agreement freeing the city from liability and giving the city authority to temporarily stop the dumping; if problems arise with pond operation;

—Discussed a complaint by Lester LaFrance regarding a glass business allegedly operating next to his home;

—Heard a report from Gex that no agreement has been reached regarding a property purchase to provide Spanish Acres residents street access to Third Street;

—Heard a report from Gex that he is awaiting a U.S. Department of Justice request reply permitting the city to use voting machines in an upcoming election; and the Hancock County Sheriff's Department on Aug. 11, 1979, when the two appeared at the jewelry store with their girl friend and wife respectively.

Haas called a number of witnesses to the stand who testified that both Bridges and Bellino were at a birthday party in Gulfport at the time of the robbery.

Vera Farve, a neighbor of Bellino said she was giving a birthday party for her son the day of the robbery and stated she needed help to set up a barbeque pit in the back yard.

She testified she went back and forth to a store in the neighborhood at which Bellino was employed to ask for his assistance.

Bellino's employer at Blackstone's Cafe in Gulfport also testified Bellino was "in and out" of the cafe all morning giving assistance to Farve the day of the robbery.

The sister-in-law of Bridges, Ethel Barnes, also testified for the defense.

She stated she was a neighbor of Bridges and at the time of the robbery she would visit Bridges and his wife every day because she was expecting and needed somebody who could drive her to the hospital.

She stated Bridges was a disc-jockey who worked late at night and who slept in late in the morning, "usually until 12:00 noon or 1:00 p.m."

She said she cooked breakfast for Bridges' two young children every morning and stayed at the Bridges' home until Bridges and his wife awoke.

"On that day (June 11) Jerry (Bridges) and his wife were still asleep when I left," she stated.

Bridges and Bellino also testified.

Bridges stated he had never been to Seymour's Jewelry and Gift Store before the date he was arrested.

He said he had never seen any off his accusers until the trial.

"I've never seen any of them before. I don't know what is happening. I am just here," he stated.

Bellino stated he had been to the jewelry store one time before the date of his arrest. He said he asked about putting an article on lay-away but could not afford to do so and left.

He said that visit occurred around June 17, 1979.

Bay St. Louis Police Chief Douglas Williams also testified.

He stated a butcher knife which the defendants allegedly used cut the telephone wires the day of the burglary failed to show any fingerprints matching the defendants when sent to a crime lab for analysis.

Finger prints from jewelry boxes a telephone receiver and a metal cash box drawer did not match those of the defendants, Williams said.

The description of the get-a-way car given by Fricke and her son also could not be traced to the defendants he stated.

The chief said an investigation into the homes of the defendants two months after the robbery also failed to produce any guns or jewelry.

The jury deliberated for approximately one and one-half hours before returning with the guilty verdict.

It's time to start a regular drainage maintenance program in Bay St. Louis. We must establish a schedule that unclogs the major trouble spots first so that water from roadside ditches and gutters has somewhere to flow. Our present city employees can handle the program if the city sets up the maintenance schedule and provides the field training.

To do the job, it will take a new approach to running this city; it will take a new mayor.

Employment survey compares salaries

The Mississippi Employment Security Commission has completed its 1981 Salary Survey, which presents salary information on almost 700 occupations throughout the state.

Of occupations common to all responding industries, the survey shows that industrial engineers are the highest paid employees, earning an average of $9.87 per hour.

They are followed by data processing systems analysts, earning an average of $9.38 per hour, and accountants, earning an average of $8.85 per hour.

These three occupations also topped the scale in the 1980 survey, which showed industrial engineers earning an average of $9.37 an hour, systems analysts earning an average of $9.08 per hour, and accountants earning an average of $7.71 an hour.

The lowest paid workers, employed in occupations common to all industries, are janitors, who earn an average of $3.99 per hour.

Janitors were also at the bottom of the scale in the 1980 Survey, earning an average of $3.54 per hour last year.

File clerks come next, earning an average of $4.23 an hour. Ranking third are telephone operators and receptionists, each earning an average of $4.25 an hour.

Not only does the survey outline salaries for occupations common to all industries in the state, but it also gives salary figures for occupations peculiar to each of 34 different industrial groups.

The listings for occupations peculiar to a specific industry show that chemical engineers earn an average of $16.14 per hour, placing them at the top of the ladder salary-wise for all jobs included in the survey.

Next on the ladder are sales representatives in the business services industry, earning $14.13 per hour and electricians in the contracting, construction, and building trades, who earn an average of $13.4 per hour.

According to the list of occupations peculiar to a specific industry, waiters and waitresses are at the opposite end of the salary scale, earning an average of $2.77 an hour, excluding their income from tips.

Also among the lowest paid workers in the state are laundry markers, who earn an

How will Hancock rate on 'Keep America Beautiful Day'?

Saturday, April 25 has been designated as "Keep America Beautiful Day."

Unless a tremendous amount of clean-up is done within the next two weeks, we feel Hancock County will receive the award for being the sloppiest place in this nation.

The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce has named April as "Help Hancock County Keep America Beautiful," as a theme.

One group, organization, political group, neighborhood or individual can not do the job alone.

We need the help of every resident of Hancock County as well as all of our political leaders in helping clean up.

We hope organizations such as the Girl Scouts and the Boy Scouts will lend a hand.

If you have any doubts about the trashy conditions existing, take a ride down any street and look at the trash along the side. The junk cluttered yards, by far outnumber those of the people with pride.

County or city workmen can clean up a street of all trash, and a week later it will be filthy again.

We would like to urge all residents to take an extra effort in cleaning their yards, and do a little extra by getting the ditches and sidewalks bordering their property.

There will be an all out effort by many concerned citizens in getting Hancock County in a cleaner condition.

You can help by urging your neighbors to do their share, after you have done yours.

We would at this time say a special thank you; to the few residents who have the pride to keep their property in "ship shape" all the time.

We need more of you, with "pride" living in Hancock County, and all it will take is a little extra effort.

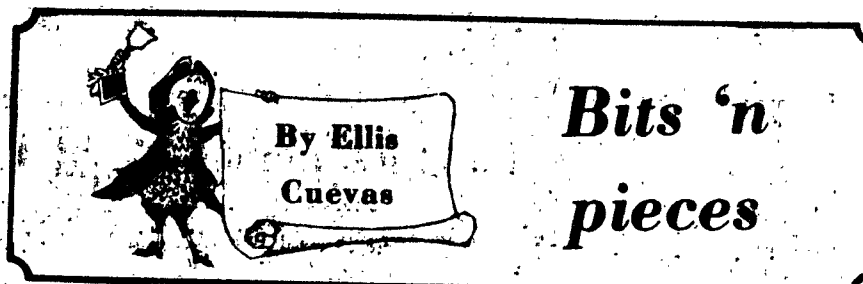

We are looking forward to "Help Hancock County Keep America Beautiful," by many of us doing our share.

PATIENT GOOD CHEER—Mrs. Michael (Myrt) Haas of Bay St. Louis, chairman of National Library Week for the Hancock County Library System, and Dr. Bertrand Sy, Hancock General Hospital staff pediatrician, review materials to be included in "book bags" to be distributed to children patients at the hospital by the library system. The book bags, to be filled with games, activities, books and information about the library, are being offered in connection with National Library Week. (Staff photo by Edgar Perez)

Bits 'n pieces

It seems that the Bay High Tigers have a one run jinx on them in baseball this season.

The Tiger nine have lost six games this season by a one run margin. Too bad the one run margin would not have been in favor of Bay High as it would have put them with fantastic record.

We hope the one run jinx will be broken in the remaining season.

It was bad news from Frank Santmyer, Highway Department Southeast District Engineer, that present plans are not for four laning Highway 603.

The highway engineer reports that Highway 603 from US-90 to Highway 43 does not have enough traffic for four lanes.

We feel the highway should be wider, but are not experts in the field.

To us it seems many more fatalities have happened on 603 than on other county highways, so something must be wrong.

We hope more surveys on traffic count will be taken in the near future.

Everyone was anxious Friday morning for the Shuttle launch, so many of our residents have been directly involved with construction and testing of the Shuttle.

We know many set their clocks early to see the historic launching.

There is great hope that everything will receive a "Go" this morning.

A COLLECTION OF COMMENTS

The congressional mailbags have been especially heavy over the past few weeks as thousands of South Mississippians responded to my ninth annual questionnaire.

I enjoy the communication with the people of the Fifth District which is prompted by questionnaires of this kind, and I certainly appreciate the comments which are included with this year's responses.

There were ten questions asked this year and, while the results are being tabulated, I have had an opportunity to look over some of the letters which were sent in. There is not room in this space to mention all of the comments, but I would like to share a few.

—From Biloxi: "I'd be willing to make my share of sacrifices, as all Americans should, to get our country on a sane track again."

—From Carriere: "I'm tired of seeing hard-working people get robbed every year with high income taxes."

—From Hattiesburg: "None of the federal programs effect me directly, but I do pay for them. Please cut back."

—From Moselle: "If you would take the graft, waste and stealing out of the government, there would be plenty of money for all of the programs."

—From Pascagoula: "I think the Department of Energy should be done away with since it has done absolutely nothing for the working man."

—From Picayune: "Keep criminals locked up and save money and time for our law officers. We have too many offenders loose."

—From Sumrall: "I think it's ridiculous to spend millions and waste gas on busing innocent children to correct social problems when the purpose of education is to educate."

—From Gulfport: "Normal relations are not possible with those nuts and crazy people operating the government of Iran."

One of the finer points of our democracy is that the people are free to express their opinions. When they do, public officials should take the time to listen.

A SPECIAL NOTE: Like all Americans, I was stunned and horrified over the attempted assassination of President Reagan. And, I thank God that he and, apparently, the others who were wounded will recover.

While there will be second-guessing over protection of the President and his party in the future, I commend the agents who reacted so professionally when the gunfire broke out. They deserve our thanks and our prayers.

REAGAN BUDGET IN GOOD HANDS

Dave Stockman is a brilliant individual. He is young, only 34 years old, a former two-term congressman from the State of Michigan and the chief architect of President Reagan's budget reduction plan.

But above all, David A. Stockman, director of the Office of Management and Budget, is so knowledgeable in his field that he has the free-spending liberals shaking in their boots.

only knows the budget numbers but he knows the practical steps necessary to reduce them.

Because of him, I think the President's budget is in good hands. Those who favor a balanced budget and reduced spending have nothing to fear.

Stockman took time from his busy schedule, which has included testimony before a variety of congressional committees, to join Congressman Jack Edwards and me the other day on a television program. His conservative philosophy and how he has translated the President's conservatism into meaningful budget cuts was music to our ears.

First, he said, it's important to recognize that the American economy is in danger of collapse because of the pressures of double-digit inflation and other complications. The Reagan administration has proposed a four-part attack to deal with the problem: spending cuts, personal and business tax cuts, regulatory reform and a sound monetary policy.

His review of literally hundreds of federal programs has been extensive and the resulting Presidential budget is now under study in Congress.

The basic concept is that the American people will respond to incentives and rewards. By reducing taxes, and getting rid of worthless regulations, the American economy will actually be more productive.

It is a dramatic proposal to change the direction of our country and, given current conditions, it's an approach which must be tried.

What can we expect if the President's proposals are adopted? Stockman predicted that by the end of 1982, we would see our economy growing at a rate of four to five percent per year. We would see the creation of two million new jobs. We would see inflation down to around nine percent per year.

What can we expect if the proposals are not adopted? As Stockman said, there is nothing happening now to improve our situation. Sitting tight is a far bigger risk than President Reagan's program. And, yes, things can get worse.

On a personal level, I am delighted that President Reagan has such a competent individual as Dave Stockman, handling his budget proposals. Here is a man who speaks the language that we conservative Mississippians can understand.

The Bottom Line

Candid Answers To Your Questions About Advertising and Business Topics.

By S. GALE DENLEY

Should I do comparison advertising? I noticed several big companies are doing a lot of these ads lately. I think I Have A Better Deal.

Dear Deal: It depends on the product, but a study done not too long ago by a large and prestigious advertising agency found:

• Comparison ads do not reduce confusion. Some think the competitor mentioned is the advertiser.

• No significant increases were noted in consumer's feelings of important differences among the brands.

• Comparison ads are no more persuasive, often less so, than non-comparative ads.

One of the major findings of the study, however, was that the more alike the products are, the more effective the comparisons are likely to be.

The researchers specifically noted that often the biggest difference in look alike products may be the advertising itself.

But others think such ads are effective, and for equally good reasons.

One impetus has been the Federal Trade Commission's encouragement of comparison ads. Another has been the success of Avis, Ford and TWA. However, the risk might be unwarranted. Avis promoted Hertz with their ads, and Ford helped make Mercedes more desirable for many.

Some merchandisers consider such ads "cheap shots" or "unethical," but, of course the test of this depends entirely on the particular application.

Another question that often arises is, are such promotions believable. Again only testing can tell for sure.

So, to answer your question more specifically, the tactic is calculated. It needs to be extensively pre-tested, and carefully monitored for reaction during a campaign.

Most of these cautions, if observed, would put comparison advertising out of reach of smaller retailers.

But, again, the main research finding is that the less difference you have to offer, generally the more effective your ads will be.

NEWS FROM THE GOVERNOR'S OFFICE

In an address to a joint session late last week, Governor William Winter praised state lawmakers for enacting a series of important bills which he proposed at the start of the 1981 session.

The majority of Winter-backed bills, including legislation dealing with transportation, were enacted. The transportation measures include revising highway laws to provide more money for maintenance; increasing truck weights which Winter said will boost economic development in the state's; funding a railroad package with $7 million to maintain a viable rail system; and funding a comprehensive intermodal transportation plan.

Other legislation enacted into law with the governor's support were bills authorizing $200 million in bonds to provide low-interest housing loans to Mississippians; enacting stricter laws for drunken driving; reorganizing the Forestry Commission; extending the Corrections Department; revising the system of paying state employees to emphasize performance; providing an $875 pay increase for teachers; and passing a strengthened open meetings law.

Winter also called on the Legislature to upgrade the state's education system. Lawmakers failed to enact a kindergarten system or an effective compulsory school attendance law proposed by Winter.

"Our drop-out rate is disturbing, our high number of undertrained people is even more disturbing," Winter said. "It is obvious that we must zero in on these problem areas and address them as resolutely as we can."

benefits in whole wheat

Whole wheat is now on the list of foods that provide iron and several other minerals to the diet.

"Until recently, it was reported that iron and other minerals from whole wheat were not nutritionally available to the body because they were linked to a chemical found in the whole wheat cereal bran or husks," says Barbara McLaurin, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service foods and nutrition specialist.

"In fact, studies showed that the chemical in the wheat bran not only made the iron in wheat, unavailable, but interfered with the absorption of minerals."

Consumers were confused as to the nutritional value of whole wheat versus white, enriched bread. Whole wheat is a good source of necessary fiber to the diet.

A recent U. S. Department of Agriculture study revealed that when the participants in the research ate whole wheat in normal amounts, the whole wheat actually contributed to the body's absorption of iron and minerals rather than taking away from it.

"Whole wheat bread provides iron and minerals naturally," she says.

Whole grain or enriched breads are important sources of B vitamins and iron. Because bread is one of the few foods eaten at most meals, it makes an important contribution to our energy and protein needs.

The major ingredients in bread furnish abundant amounts of easily digestible carbohydrates as well as other essential nutrients.

Thriffley issued the following statement:

"During this term of office my campaign promises of continued improvement of the recreation department and promotion of the business district have been fulfilled.

"The recreation department has made great strides, and it has greatly expanded its program to include an even greater number of our children and adults as participants.

"The Historical Survey of our city has done much to promote tourism and investment in local properties. With the publication of the walking tour brochure entitled 'Historic Downtown Bay St. Louis,' the citizens have developed an even greater pride in their homes.

"This they have demonstrated by a wave of community remodeling, painting, and general good upkeep of their dwellings and businesses. Because of the preceding facts, the value of property in the district and throughout the city has been enhanced.

"Revenues derived from the sales of goods has risen, both rapidly and steadily. The remodeling of homes and businesses has provided employment for our local craftsmen, and the prognosis for the future is that the new investors that are appearing daily will continue to create additional employment for our local men and women.

"During my term as councilman, the sewerage service has been expanded so that sewerage service is available to every home in Ward Two.

"Additionally, plans for the widening of Main Street are being prepared along with the funding application that guarantees 75 percent of the construction costs will be paid through a program under which the Federal Urban Aid to Systems funds are already deposited in the name of Bay St. Louis.

"Progress is a wonderful thing. It is a goal that we all seek. We want and encourage tourism, gradual growth, continued improvement in the quality of life, and a better community understanding of exactly where our tax dollars are going."

street repairs

Bay St. Louis can have good streets if we start a regular drainage maintenance program and follow through with standard, proven street repair practices. Just throwing shells or asphalt in a pothole isn't good enough. It wastes time and money, and it doesn't work.

Last year we spent almost twice what we spent in 1977 to maintain streets and drainage. We should get more for our money. With a new mayor we can.

Angry parents confront Hancock School Board

By BRENT MACEY

Five angry parents of Gulfview Elementary eighth graders appeared at a Friday Hancock County School Board meeting to complain that some $1,071 raised by the parents for their children to attend a two day field trip to Jackson was 'misused' by school administrators.

The parents group contends the money in part was used to pay trip expenses for six teacher chaperones while 11 students were forced to stay home because they could not afford to go.

The board called an executive session with each of the parents being called in separately to discuss the issue with Gulfview principal William Haddock and board members.

A motion presented by Louie Ladner and approved by the board after the session stated "It is the finding of this board that the principal handled this situation in accordance with school board policies."

The 37 students who attended the two day field trip in Jackson viewed the state legislature, met their representatives and visited the Vicksburg battle field the next day.

The group of students and teachers stayed overnight in a motel with seven rooms reserved for the students and three rooms reserved for the six teacher chaperones. Louie Ladner said any money raised for student activities goes into the school activity fund and is allocated under the authority of the school principal.

The resolution states there was some 'misunderstanding' among involved parties and 'one statement was made by a school person pertaining to financing which was out of authority.' Ladner said that teacher, whose name was not revealed, told some parents the activity fund money would not be used to pay hotel accommodations for teacher chaperones.

Some $29 of that money was used for that purpose, according to Billy Sils, school superintendent.

"It was not the responsibility of that teacher to say how that money would be spent," Ladner said.

"That decision is up to the school principal."

The resolution further requests 'all these matters be resolved with the principal.'

Outside the executive session meeting, the parents who waited to be called also complained of an incident which occurred outside Haddock's office after the parents scheduled a meeting with the principal to express their concern over the funding situation.

The parents, who refused to be identified, said a group of teachers were waiting outside the principal's office when they emerged from that meeting.

Two of the parents, who are females, said they were forcibly 'grabbed and pushed' out of the building by one of the male teachers at Gulfview during an argument which ensued between a teacher and a parent.

One of the parents who was allegedly 'pushed' said she felt the teacher did it 'to protect us because he knew we were upset.'

In further business, the board: —Approved the 1981-82 school calendar;

—Approved a five acre 16th Section residential land lease to Vernell Hoda at $270 per year;

—Accepted bus drivers for the school district for the 1981-82 year. Sils said he will ride the school bus routes during the summer to determine what the exact routes will be. Board members had stated some of the routes were not fair and road conditions now enable busses to travel in areas where they have not previously circulated.

—Approved non-certified personnel at Charles B. Murphy and Gulfview Elementary for the 1981-82 school year.

Company testing Hwy. 603 well

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Spooner Petroleum officials will know later this week if its well at I-10 and Hwy. 603 will yield marketable natural gas.

Lama Drilling Co. of Natchez recently completed drilling work and set 5.5-inch casings at the 13,500-foot well.

Harry Spooner, general partner in Spooner Petroleum of Jackson, Friday said, "We perforated and we're testing, but we don't know yet if it's going to make a well."

The casing is perforated at a level where the Mooringsport formation, yielding natural gas in the nearby Waveland Field, is thought to be located.

Spooner reported, "When we first tested we got some gas and a lot of salt water. But we're going to put it back on test in a few days."

When asked why preparations are underway apparently to tie the well into a nearby gas transport line, Spooner replied, "That's in case it is a producer. Then we can start production without shutting the well down."

NEARING SMACKOVER

Hunt Energy Corp.'s multi-million dollar Smackover test well located inside the National Space Technology Laboratories' Acoustic Buffer Zone near Bayou LaCrosse Road should be completed in about 45 days.

The Dallas based corporation is owned by billionaires Nelson B. and William H. Hunt.

Houston Hunt, the company's Jackson office geologist, Friday said, "We've reached about 20,000 feet and we expect to complete drilling in about 45 days."

When completed the 23,000 foot well will be the deepest ever drilled in Hancock County and is expected to yield a pharmaceutical grade sulfur and natural gas of the Smackover formation.

Penrod Drilling Co., a Hunt subsidiary, began drilling the deep well named No. One Crosby Well, May 2, 1980.

If Penrod successfully penetrates the Smackover gas trend a processing plant will be needed to refine sulfur and gas from the high-pressure well. Drilling costs may exceed $3 million.

Election.....

Taylor are competing for the Ward I seat.

Incumbent James C. Thriffley III is being challenged for the Ward II seat by Clyde L. Ladner and Clarence M. Ladner.

Incumbent Harry John Farve is facing competition from Charles Edward Johnson, Herta M. Smith and Thomas P. Clarke for the Ward III seat. Both Smith and Clarke are registered as independents in that election.

Qualification deadlines for those two candidates was April 3.

City Clerk Favre said the independent candidates will also be automatically listed on the general election ballot.

The five candidates seeking the Ward IV seat include, Sheldon M. Seuteneau, John W. Wilkerson, Charles R. Hirsitus Sr., Michael H. Merdier and Truman Anthony Schultz.

Favre said, "There is a possibility of a second runoff primary in Wards II and IV."

He said each candidate must receive the majority of the votes to appear on the general election ballot and noted those wards each had more than two candidates who qualified.

He said a primary runoff election if needed will be May 19.

Favre listed the following voting locations for the May 12 primary election. They include the Garden Center of Leonhard Avenue for Ward I voters; the Cy Rosenthal Gymnasium on Seminary Road for Ward II voters; the Valena C. Jones Center on Old Spanish Trail and Booker Street for Ward III voters; and the Christ Episcopal School on 912 South Beach Boulevard for Ward IV voters.

Underwood addresses Handcrafters

Mrs. Darleen Underwood, Cooperative Extension Service Home Economist, was guest speaker at the April 2 meeting of the Clermont Handcrafters held at the Clermont Harbor home of Mrs. William Mains.

Mrs. Underwood encouraged participation in council activities and stressed the importance of club cooperation in all their projects.

Mrs. Robert Taconi, Clermont Handcrafters president, introduced new member, Mrs. Anna Jo Pearce, who was welcomed by the membership.

Appointed by the president to serve on the committee for the club's annual picnic June 4 were Mesdames William Hero, William Ary and Pearce.

Mrs. J. C. Goodloe and Mrs. Maurice Shea are to head the by-laws and constitution committee.

Among many handcrafted articles members displayed at the meeting were textile painted throw pillow covers made by Mrs. Eunice Murray, a cuddly caterpillar and a wide variety of bunnies and Easter decoration handcrafted by Mrs. Charles Dickson.

Additional articles displayed were a yo-yo clown doll, Mrs. Hero, crocheted rabbit, Mrs. Harry Baxter, and an assortment of crocheted bunnies, Mrs. A. M. Thomas.

Following the business meeting, Mrs. Dickson conducted a colorful Lifesaver Bunny Doll workshop for members interested in learning the art.

Co-hostesses with Mrs. Mains were Mrs. Irene Graff and Mrs. Taconi.

Next meeting will be May 7.

All friends and relatives are invited to attend.

Stress Management

Workshop rescheduled

"The Stress Management Workshop for Women" scheduled at USM-Gulf Park in Long Beach, Miss. will be held Saturday, April 25 instead of April 23, a week day.

"The change came after many women in the Gulf Coast area wanted to attend the workshop without leaving work," said Dr. Sara Kay Lehrer, coordinator of USM Women's Programming in Hattiesburg, sponsor of the event.

The workshop has so far received excellent response from wives, mothers and career women in the area. Registration will begin at 9 a.m. in Room 312 of Lloyd Hall on the scheduled Saturday.

Pilgrimage luncheon celebrates Spring

"Celebrating Springtime" was the theme of a luncheon in the home of Mrs. Nunez C. Pilet of Highland Drive in conjunction with the Bay St. Louis Spring Pilgrimage.

Prior to luncheon, guests assembled for an hour of "Show and Tell," featuring Frances Walker, anthropologist and a well-known authority on Navaho Indian culture.

local artist Nadine Stamm who explained the technique she used in obtaining realistic colors.

A miniature antique doll with moveable arms and legs fastened by wires, and owned by Kathleen Ashley was displayed.

Mildred Robertson of Gulfport, a member of the National Thimble Club, passed around some thirty South American Indians on gourds, and told something of her visit on that continent.

Also displayed was a Bill of Sale for eight slaves, dated April 8, 1861, supplied through the courtesy of E. Davis McCutcheon and some brown short fiber cotton, the only type cotton slaves were allowed to grow for their own use.

This cotton was available through the courtesy of the Tupelo Tourist Information Center.

The group toured places of interest and were honored with a surprise unveiling of King Neptune, an outstanding wooden carved figurehead from a 17th Century Viking ship's prow, soon to be hoisted into a permanent location within the Shieldsboro Square Arcade Building.

Mrs. Dorothy Brown explained that she bought King Neptune's likeness about three years ago, found it to be in an excellent state of preservation, and is currently doing some research to substantiate its history.

Guests in attendance represented coastal towns of Biloxi, Gulfport, Long Beach, Pass Christian, Bay St. Louis and Waveland.

MRS. FRANCES WALKER

Mrs. Walker wore a Navaho costume applied with corn design and Indian figures together with an impressive array of turquoise and silver jewelry consisting of bracelets, squash blossom necklaces and rings designed by prominent Indian silversmiths.

She explained how our culture might well blend with that of the Navaho in matters of community health and welfare.

"Yellow tulips" delicately water colored, were shown by thimbles selected from her collection consisting of approximately 350.

Included were examples of thimbles from many countries, a thimble designed for those with extra long fingernails, thimbles of glass, brass, silver, leather, and porcelain.

Katrina McDonald displayed a vase of early spring flowers grown in her garden and read poetry inspired by springtime.

Lucy Shearer displayed fine examples of designs carved by

SAMANTHA MARIE FAYE

Coast DAR hears genealogist

The Gulf Coast Chapter of the Mississippi Society Daughters of the American Revolution met April 8 at the Harold Noll home, 135 Woodglen, Gulfport.

Mrs. Walter Bristow presented a program "Love of Our Forefathers."

Mrs. Bristow is a genealogist by profession, by vocation, and most of all by love. Her program was enlightening, interesting and humorous, according to Phyllis Barrios, club spokeswoman.

She brought with her books of her trade and charts for lineage work. One fact presented was that with one set of parents it was possible to trace ancestry back to 1004 people.

Next year, as reported by Mrs. James Coker, regent, the chapter will be meeting at noon (dutch treat luncheon) at the Western Sizzlin on a two-month trial basis.

Mrs. Coker also reported on the chapter's gift sent for the Mississippi breakfast to be held in Washington, D.C. at Continental Congress the end of April.

The meeting next month will be a covered dish luncheon at the home of Mrs. Hunter Kimbrough, 806 N. Beach, Bay St. Louis.

Mr. James Stevens will present a program on the background of the Coastal Indians.

County Agent's Notes

by John Smith

CHOOSE VARIETIES

What do you look for in soybean variety? Obviously, yield is a major consideration. But other factors should influence your decision.

First, consider your soil's capabilities and problems. Then select the varieties that fit your farm situation best. Look for varieties that have pest resistance, resist lodging and don't shatter.

Study yield performance at research stations similar to your own soil and location. Look at several years' research; don't depend on one year's results.

You'll want to check on herbicide reaction, too. Some varieties are sensitive to Lexone or Sencor.

Don't abandon known varieties that are yielding well. Gradually switch to new ones that research has shown to have more advantages.

Planting different maturing varieties will lengthen the harvest season and let you harvest more acres per combine. It also gives you some insurance against unfavorable weather. A good guideline is to plant 30 percent early, 50 percent mid-maturity and 20 percent late maturity varieties.

No matter what varieties you plant, you won't get the best results without lime, fertilizer and good management.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

You might want to keep the following information handy for your friends who live in town:

Agriculture is the nation's number one employer. It employs more than 15 million people, from growing food and fiber to selling it at the supermarket. It accounts for one of every five jobs in private enterprise.

Agriculture is the nation's number one inflation fighter. Farm productivity growth was five times greater than non-farm industry in the past five years. One farm worker supplies enough food and fiber for 68 people.

Agriculture is the nation's number one exporter. Agricultural exports were a record $30 billion in 1980, by far the leading positive factor in the U.S. balance of trade. These exports make it possible to pay for imports like oil, automobiles and electronics.

American agriculture is the most efficient in the world. According to the latest figures, we're spending 16.5 percent of our income for food. Russians spend 45 percent; West Germans, 27 percent; Japanese, 28 percent; British, 31 percent; and Italians, 35 percent.

CUSTOM WORK

Machinery costs often are the biggest single expense on the farm, and we're all interested in looking at ways to cut these high costs. It might pay you to consider using custom work when time to replace worn-out equipment or buy more rolls around.

Many times, it is cheaper to use custom work than it is to own the equipment. It usually is cheaper to hire custom work up to the break-even point — the point where the cost of custom work is equal to the cost of owning and operating the equipment.

You can find your break-even point if you know the annual fixed cost of owning the equipment, operating cost per acre of the equipment and the custom rate per acre. Dividing the annual fixed cost by the custom rate minus operating cost will give you the break-even point in the number of acres.

If your farm acreage is less than the break-even point, hiring the work done may be cheaper than owning the equipment. A farm acreage greater than the break-even point means it's cheaper to own the equipment.

There are disadvantages as well as good points in using custom work. For more information and a list of average custom rates for various farm jobs, contact the county Extension office.

THIN PEACHES

Most fruit trees produce more fruit than the tree can maintain, and the peach tree is no exception. Thinning can be an expensive, time-consuming operation, but it is necessary to produce the kind of peaches acceptable in competitive markets.

Thinning not only produces bigger fruit, it improves fruit color and quality, reduces limb breakage and promotes tree vigor. It also allows more thorough application of sprays and dusts for effective disease and insect control.

We have completed details at the county Extension Office on thinning peaches and other fruits in commercial and home orchards.

What farmers do in April affects crops throughout the growing season. Here are some practices that will help increase yields and lower production costs in the upcoming crop season.

Fertilize according to crop needs based on a soil test. Soil testing is a free service of the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service. The county agent's office has the materials you need.

Know weed problems in each field and the chemicals needed to control them. Our office has complete information on chemicals recommended for weed problems.

Prepare a good seedbed and take the necessary steps to get a good stand with the first planting. Plant the best seed available and insure good drainage to get good stands of early plantings.

Apply nitrogen fertilizer as near to the time the crop will use it as is practical.

SOYBEANS FOR SEED

Some of our farmers have expressed an interest in producing soybean seed for sale or for their own use. Producing high quality seed begins before plantings.

Select your best and cleanest fields. Weeds reduce yields and can reduce seed quality. If certain weed seeds are present, the seed can't be certified and shouldn't be used on your own farm because it will spread weeds to other fields.

Marketing should be no problem if you are growing seed on contract. If you are growing for sale from the farm and want to sell certified seed, you must plant registered (purple tag) seed and apply for certification. Apply to the Mississippi Seed Improvement Association, P. O. Drawer MS, Mississippi State, Mississippi 39762.

If you plan to sell non-certified seed, make sure you don't produce a variety protected by the Plant Variety Protection Act. Selling non-certified seed of a protected variety may be against the law. Check to be sure.

GOOD BUY

Your shrinking dollar buys more food than you may think. With an hour's pay the average U.S. factory worker can buy more than four times the frying chickens he could in 1950. He can buy more than three times the eggs, about twice as much milk and butter, about 2.5 times more pork and 50 percent more white bread than he could in 1950.

SELLING VS. MARKETING

Do you sell or market your crops?

When you sell, you simply receive a price for whatever quality of crop that you can most easily produce, at whatever time it is ready for delivery and at whatever place is convenient. And, you receive whatever price is offered, which is usually lowest at harvest.

On the other hand, when you market you sell for the highest profit potential at the most profitable location. Marketing gives you some control over prices and profits.

Marketing can't guarantee you will always get the price you want or even that you will always make a profit.

But by using the futures market, with soybeans for example, you can choose from a wide range of prices over a long period rather than simply take whatever cash price you can get.

Marketing takes more planning than selling. You will need to develop a marketing plan to reach your objectives. If your marketing goal is to reduce risk by locking in an acceptable price, then your chances of success are very good.

There are several alternatives available to help you plan your marketing strategy. For specific information on these options, call or visit the county extension office.

CONSERVE MOISTURE
The next couple of months are usually a period of fairly high rainfall and low soil moisture loss. We're going to need all the moisture we can get to have the soil completely charged by planting.

I keep hearing we're in for another dry summer. I don't know if this is going to happen or not, but we almost always lose moisture faster than we receive it.

Our production programs should allow maximum moisture intake until the soil is fully charged. This means shallow seedbed preparation, good stand, and crops free of weeds, insect and disease.

Cultivate shallowly and only when needed to control weeds and break crusts.

Let's emphasize saving moisture this spring so our crops will have a better chance to have moisture when they really need it this summer.

PREPARE COWS

Correct stimulation of dairy cows' udders by washing and massaging will encourage the animals to give more milk. Research shows thorough washing and drying for 30 seconds increased milk production 30 percent compared to stimulating for shorter periods.

Stripping a few streams of milk from each quarter before washing and drying stimulates milk let down and reduces mastitis.

In one study, stripping before washing and drying reduced new infections from 18 percent to seven percent.

ART EXHIBIT—Ethel Dormain and Bay St. Louis Mayor Larry Bennett stand by Mrs. Dormain's paintings which will be on display at the Bay St. Louis City Hall for the next month. Dormain is a student of Retired Senior Volunteer Program volunteer teacher Carl Baldenhofer and has been painting for approximately two years. A reception for the occasion was sponsored by the Hancock County Art Association with refreshments served by RSVP volunteers Juliette Cook, Pauline Demarest and Laurin Lacoste. Southern's list of workshops told

The University of Southern Mississippi's annual list of spring and summer workshops has just been released and it shows 105 workshops available. USM's Division of Continuing Education which offers the workshops at Hattiesburg, USM Gulf Park campus in Long Beach and USM-Natchez has brochures available listing all the camps, workshops, conferences and seminars. Most of the workshops offered are between April and early August with 78 in Hattiesburg, 19 at Gulf Park and 8 at Natchez.

The Colleges of Education and Psychology, Fine Arts, Liberal Arts, and Science and Technology are offering workshops as well as the Schools of Home Economics, Library Service, Social Work and others.

To receive a copy of the brochure write: Department of Conferences and Workshops, Southern Station Box 5456, Hattiesburg, Miss. 39401.

Reflections.....

INSPECTORS ARE GOOD GUYS

The common man and woman would fare poorly indeed if they were robbed of the good services of the much maligned "inspector". Oh, every now and then one or two of them get a bit greedy and sell their soul; but, for every one of these who are flawed and fail to pass a personal moral inspection, there are many thousands who do and protect you and me from being cheated, abused or made ill in the big game of world commerce.

Recently Mississippi peanut farmers were repaid by the courts after a flawed peanut inspector downgraded their collective production for pecuniary gain. A few years ago lower South grain shippers were victimized by shady dealings at some of our export elevators. Once again their wrongful acts were discovered and exorcized from the trade. Such shenanigans are by no means new. Early Mississippi tobacco trade in southwest Mississippi was enigmatized by it. In the first years of the 19th century state tobacco farmers who went to market in New Orleans with their crop found that in order to deal effectively in the market, one had to develop a certain competence in living with the customs of the royal Spanish warehouse. Ungraded tobacco, for example, passing the inspector was received at the price of $10 per hundredweight. It was a common practice, to make sure that the inspector did not reject a shipment of tobacco, to drop Spanish silver dollars into the inspector's pockets. This tip, or bribe, was accepted by the market because the inspectors reportedly were not well paid for their services and relied heavily on this extra compensation.

But the errant shoe wasn't always on the inspectors who had learned to always slightly bend the tobacco bundles in order to detect the possible presence of a wooden core in the form of a cypress knee. These frauds on both sides drew the tobacco trade in New Orleans into general disrepute for a period.

Today, however, despite the problem of over-regulation, the American public has good cause for gratitude for any inspection services which assure both producers and consumers of a standard of fairness at all levels of business. In fact, it is fair to say that standardization makes our way of life possible. Standards in trade began in earnest shortly before the Civil War when the manufacture of rifles with interchangeable parts ushered in mass production. Manufactured parts today are turned out by the millions, each exactly like the other down to the thousandth of an inch.

Farm products, however, cannot be manufactured to close tolerances but are grown to genetic and cultural levels in varying parts of the globe. Thus they instead must be sorted or graded and assigned national and international uniformities.

Even the familiar Mississippi cotton buyer who sat beneath a good light to pull cotton fibers from a sample into fiber length classifications is yielding away from reliance upon his human senses to instrumentation.

Inspection services afford health protection, quality guarantees, and in most cases rule out human error, unwitting or not. Further, grading today has brought improvements in the products themselves by setting production goals obtainable both in breeding and cultural techniques.

Housewives at the meat market now have the assurance that a U. S. No. 1 slaughter hog is expected to yield more than 53 percent of its carcass weight in the four major lean cuts while a No. 4 will yield less than 47 percent. And the fresh meat buyer, or purchaser of other perishables, likewise has a health assurance that the products have been handled, processed, packaged and distributed according to safe procedures.

True, the U. S. has suffered in recent years from over-regulation in many ways, but federal and state inspectors in general still deserve to be called the good guys.

If you've got your health, you've got it all!

Councilman Farve seeks reelection

Ward Three incumbent Councilman Harry J. Farve has announced he will seek reelection in the May 1 primary for the St. Louis municipal primary.

Farve, a 37-year-old Bay native and supervisor for Alton, is seeking his second term on council.

He has served as vice president of that body for the past two years.

He is president of the St. Francis Council and member of the Catholic School System School and Knights of Peter Claver No. 6.

Farve is president of the...
